

New ACRE Briefing on revisions to the NPPF

The publication of the draft NPPF during the summer created significant concerns as to how the ambiguity it created would affect local plans and planning decisions. Since then, the CLG Select Committee has examined the issues and has published its recommendations. ACRE's Briefing on the committee's report concludes that, should the recommendations be adopted by government, the final NPPF will re-establish a plan-led system in which local planning authorities, developers and communities should all have confidence.

To view the ACRE Briefing, please visit the Localism Act Briefings section of the ACRE website.

©2012 ACRE
Built on Cubik